Where is my activation code?

If you registered for one of the Lakes freeware packages but did not receive an email with your activation code, there are several possibilities:

- You specified an invalid email address
- The email was blocked by your spam filter
- The email was directed to your junk folder

The email with the activation code will come from support@weblakes.com, you may want to mark this address as safe and re-register to have a second email send.
